Investment Objective and Strategies

The Tangerine Balanced Income Portfolio (the “Fund”) seeks to provide income with a secondary focus on capital appreciation by investing in both fixed income and equity securities based on a targeted allocation among four different types of investments in the following proportions:

Each of the four investment types seek to replicate, as closely as possible, the performance of a recognized securities index. Currently, the Canadian bond component seeks to replicate the FTSE Canada Universe Bond Index; the Canadian equities component seeks to replicate the S&P/TSX 60 Index; the U.S. equities component seeks to replicate the S&P 500 Index; and the international equities component seeks to replicate the MSCI EAFE Index.

Risk

The risks associated with investing in the Fund are as described in the Simplified Prospectus. There were no material changes to the Fund over the year that affected the overall level of risk of the Fund.

Results of Operations

The Fund had net assets of $372 million at December 31, 2023 and $418 million at December 31, 2022. The Fund’s net assets decreased by $46 million over the one-year period ended on December 31, 2023. The change was composed of net redemptions of $78 million and investment performance of $32 million.

Investment Results

Risk sentiment, was generally positive when evaluated through our proprietary risk gauge. Bond volatility (MOVE index) was little changed, and it remained high relative to historical standards. Equity volatility (VIX Index) moved lower over the final two months of the year and tested pre-Covid levels.

The Canadian economy contracted in Q3, but looks to have rebounded in Q4, helped by improvement in goods and a stable service sector output. Further, the unemployment rate ticked higher, but average hourly earnings remain elevated. Core inflation in Canada remained stubbornly high and the Bank of Canada (BoC) maintained a hawkish outlook with ongoing concerns about the outlook for inflation.

The US economy continued to outpace on the back of consumer spending on durable goods, as labor and wages remained strong. Central banks halted the upward trajectory of interest rates, with the U.S. Federal Reserve (Fed), Bank of Canada (BoC), European Central Bank (ECB) and Bank of England (BoE) all leaving rates unchanged during the quarter. Despite the pause, all central banks seemed to imply “higher for longer” rates.

The Fed released their updated summary of economic projections, which reflected slightly lower inflation projections and additional rate cuts, but still reflected restrictive rates through 2025.

After stumbling in Q3, markets rebounded in the fourth quarter with equities and bonds finishing the year in positive territory. With the exception of gold, commodities were the lone exception, finishing down over 4.6%, as record production in the US and concerns about future demand offset production restraints by OPEC+.

Markets stumbled in October due to upside surprise to inflation, jobs and consumer spending, which followed more hawkish economic projections from the Fed in September. However, cooler economic data released in November sparked a strong rally, which continued in December when the Fed held rates and adjusted projections for additional rate cuts in 2024.

The Canadian bond market, as measured by the FTSE Canada Universe Bond Index, returned 6.7% over the twelve-month period. Canadian stocks, as measured by the S&P/TSX 60 Index, over the twelve-month period, finished the year by 12.1%. Similarly, international equities, as measured by the MSCI EAFE Index, rose by 15.1% in Canadian-dollar terms. In the U.S., the S&P 500 Index ended the period up 22.9% in Canadian-dollar terms.

Recent Developments

Since late 2021, inflation readings have been elevated in Canada, the US, and Europe. Since 2022, Inflation Risk and Central Bank tightening has continued to impact markets. In 2023, in a continued attempt to tame rising inflation, the Central Bank of Canada increased rates by 0.75%, a 4.75% increase since the first rate hike in 2022. Additionally, the escalating geopolitical risks in the Middle East and the war in Ukraine continue to cause significant economic and humanitarian damage, and have resulted in continued disruptions to the global supply chain.

Notes:

- (1) This information is derived from the Fund's annual audited financial statements. The information for the net asset per unit section of the financial highlights are based on IFRS Accounting Standards ("IFRS").
- (2) Net assets and distributions are based on the actual number of units outstanding at the relevant time. The increase/decrease from operations is based on the weighted average number of units outstanding over the financial year.
- (3) Distributions were paid in cash/reinvested in additional units of the Fund, or both.
- (4) This information is provided as at December 31 of the years shown.
- (5) Management expense ratio ("MER") is based on total expenses plus harmonized sales tax (excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs) for the stated period and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the year. The manager absorbed certain expenses of the fund. Such absorptions may be terminated at any time without notice.
- (6) The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the year.
- (7) The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund's portfolio adviser manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the period. The higher a portfolio turnover rate in a year, the greater the trading costs payable by the fund in the year, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the year. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance.
